CHOOSING THE RIGHT PATIO

Patio doorsets are an ideal way to improve your home and add value to it. Our extensive range gives you many ways to open up your living space to the outside – and let the light flood in.

We have a range of standard and made to order sizes to choose from to fit whatever project you are working on.

Our sizes are now shown as actual frame size and guidance on brickwork tolerance is shown to help you when measuring up.

Our oak Canberra and hardwood Darwin products are engineered and laminated, which means that rather than using a single piece of oak or hardwood, we use separate pieces bonded together, providing a stronger dimensional stability. Oak veneer has decorative slices of oak with a lower density core.

How to buy

- Check Building Regulations for your project, see page 314
- Measure up - the opening size you are installing a patio door in will vary which may dictate your choice.
- Decide if you want it to open in, out, concertina (fold and slide) or slide for smaller spaces. Concertina will open out only.
- Consider the material you want – softwood and oak veneer can be a great way to get the look and keep to a budget, or solid oak or hardwood give a premium look and performance.
- Choose the style of patio you want – do you want bars, do you want side lights?
- Quote the relevant product code(s) for the products you want or send us the sizes for the made to measure options.
- Confirm the specification you want where there is a choice including U value thermal performance, paint or stain finish, hardware (NB most of our patio hardware is a standard specification – see page 184 for other options available).
- To see the full specification options across the range see page 150.
- Remember to ensure a suitable lintel is fitted before installation. See our website for further information.

GLAZING SUPPLIED BY PILKINGTON™

JELD-WEN's extensive range of UK manufactured timber patio doorsets are supplied factory fitted with Pilkington energiKare™ gas filled units (to EN 1279 Pt3) as standard.

The Pilkington energiKare™ range utilises 'Low emissivity' coated glass to reflect heat back into a building, greatly improving its thermal efficiency and also maximising the use of freely available heat from the sun. Poorly insulated windows account for up to 20% of the heat loss in an average home.

The combination of JELD-WEN patio doorset range performance and design combined with Pilkington energiKare™ insulating glass units means there is a patio doorset range suitable for every project.
